Current priorities

The current priorities for the Reichstein Foundation are listed below. Please tick any of these areas that particularly interest you.

- Indigenous people
- people with a disability in particular mental illness)
- newly arrived communities
- human rights
- justice and corrections issues
- the environment
- regional & rural communities
- the western metropolitan region of Melbourne, in recognition of Lance Reichstein's involvement in this area

If within these areas of interest, you have any specific funding preferences, such as projects from a geographic area, projects in preschools, or projects benefiting women please let us know.

Partnership Opportunities

To be able to fund more of the worthwhile projects that are presented to us we would like to increase donor involvement in funding projects.

May we contact you about particular projects in your areas of interest?

Yes / No

Donor Resources and Activities

Reichstein Foundation will send you Reichstein News, a quarterly journal of news, events, achievements and project updates.

Donor Partners are also invited to Donor Briefings; an occasional seminar & workshop series involving Reichstein funded projects, community development work and events.

If you are interested in any of the following please tick

- Project visits to meet grant recipients and see first-hand work that is taking place at a community level.
- becoming involved in campaigns that Reichstein has been affiliated with.
- social gatherings with other donors, Reichstein trustees, staff and friends.
- professional development opportunities in the form of workshops, or lectures in a selected area for example youth law, community development in Australia, social change philanthropy etc.
